

Crowd That Packs Garden Sees Sammy Sieger and Billy De Foe of St. Paul in Fast 15 Round Draw

SIEGER AND DE FOE IN DRAW IN GARDEN

Featherweights Battle Fast for Fifteen Rounds and Judges Disagree.

DECISION BY REFEREE Spectators Believe Harlemitte Had Shaded the Better of the Combat.

By CHARLES F. MATHISON.

Sammy Sieger, the Harlem featherweight with an eye on the title of the class, boxed Billy De Foe of St. Paul, a pupil of Mike Gibbons, fifteen rounds at Madison Square Garden last night in the presence of a packed house. At the end of the final round Major Biddle gave his vote to Sieger as the winner, Joseph Ruddy declared the contest a draw and John Hoke, the referee, coincided with him.

Therefore, the bout will go into the official record as a drawn battle. Despite the official ruling, Sieger appeared to have won the contest. He was the aggressor, who had recently graduated from the amateur ranks, not only held his own against the vaunted cleverness of De Foe, but in a majority of the rounds Sieger carried the fight to his opponent, landing the greater number of blows and assuredly hitting with greater effect.

The Harlemitte dropped De Foe in the fifth round with a sharp right hander on the chin, which was the only knockdown of the contest, and he also landed staggering blows on the jaw of the St. Paul man nearly every round of the bout.

It must be said in favor of De Foe that he possesses an iron jaw, for De Foe took the heavy shocks that reached his chin he was not in distress in any stage of the game. So far as De Foe's imitation of Mike Gibbons is concerned, the featherweight's exhibition last night was undoubtedly a success. He was a smile to the face of the St. Paul fighter. De Foe has a good left hand, which he uses on face and body with considerable effect. But his right hand is apparently useless.

Sieger a Possibility.
It was reported that De Foe's right hand had not entirely recovered from an injury received in a previous bout. However, he was supposed to be in condition to support his best efforts, and in his performance last night was the best he can do there is no danger of him getting killed.

Sieger took the aggressive in the second round and made a very good showing. He frequently reached the face and body with his left, and once landed sharply on the jaw with his right. De Foe directed his attack to the body, but with little effect.

De Foe boxed up in the third round and peppered Sieger very hard with his left on body and face. De Foe also had the better of the fourth round, Sieger being rather confused at the finish of the session.

De Foe was putting it all over Sieger in the fifth, when shortly before the bell ended the round Sieger shot a right hander to De Foe's chin and De Foe took a seat on the canvas. The St. Paul fighter arose at once without taking the count and finished the round in good condition.

The sixth round was Sieger's best. He landed frequently with lefts and rights on De Foe, but failed to do any special damage. De Foe boxed and outgeneralized his man in the seventh in a course in which Referee Hopoff cautioned Sieger about holding.

Sieger exhibited combativeness in the eighth, while he was outboxed. He landed quite a number of effective blows, giving him a shade on the round. Sieger also took the ninth round, outboxing De Foe from start to the finish. De Foe put on steam in the tenth and landed with frequency and accuracy and easily took the honors of the round.

De Foe slowed in the eleventh and Sieger by landing quite a number of vigorous lefts and rights to the face made the round an even one.

HIGH LIGHTS AND SHADOWS IN ALL SPHERES OF SPORT

By DANIEL.

It seems to be pretty well established that the match between Jack Dempsey and Jess Willard, which was postponed some time ago until Labor Day, will not materialize. For reasons best known to himself Dempsey does not want to meet the man from whom he wrested the heavyweight championship. This attitude on the part of the title holder lends additional strength to the belief that Dempsey is not exactly the Titan which he appeared to be after he stopped Willard at Toledo, and that Dempsey is not possessed of great confidence in his ability to repeat over the Kansan. Whatever the reason, those who look for the fight to take place are going to be disappointed.

Dempsey, it appears, has asked that Willard take on somebody else, Fulton or Brennan preferred, in order to show that he is entitled to a return match. We are not very keen for a second Dempsey-Willard battle, but we are with Willard in characterizing this demand as sheer effrontery. As a former champion Willard should not be asked to go through a preliminary test to decide whether he is a fit antagonist for the man whom he gave a chance at the laurels. As for a Willard-Fulton match, that's out of the question. We don't see why any heavyweight should meet Fulton.

Dempsey, by the way, is advertised to be in a great many places at the same time within the next several months. His manager says that he is going to Europe to box a series of exhibitions with sparring partners. From Los Angeles comes the word that Dempsey will remain in that city and will work for the films. From Painted Post and Hamone Junction we hear that the champion will train here. From London, Paris, Montreal, Boston, Jersey City, Atlantic City, Harlem, and elsewhere we hear that Dempsey is to meet Carpenter there on July 2. What's all the shootin' for?

Sold Sox Hold Strong Strategic Position.
"The prosecution has no case against the indicted White Sox," said a big baseball man yesterday. "That's the dismal truth. We know that the men who confessed are guilty, but there is no law in Illinois under which they can be convicted. The case will be thrown out of court. As for Weaver he probably will start suit against Charley Comiskey for his salary for the season of 1921, for which he is under contract. And as he made no confession he has no case. But he is a wise man who will keep quiet. A statement from his indicted associates, repudiating their testimony, which implicated him as one of the conspirators, would put Comiskey and the American League in a awful fix."

"I note that there is a strong feeling in Chicago that Weaver is not guilty. Comiskey himself admits that he has him 'up a tree.' Well, if the White Sox are in last place on July 1 the fans out there will yell for the reinstatement of every one of the indicted men. That's the way of the fan. Club owners do not often regret the sins of their patrons."

We pointed out that while the indicted players had been suspended indefinitely by Comiskey, he never had given to any of the indicted players their unconditional releases. The sold Sox were "fired from the club," but not released. Whereupon the baseball man replied, "The indicted players were not released because Mr. Austrian, Comiskey's lawyer, counseled against such action. He must have a good reason for that stand. If the other indicted players whitewash Weaver there is grave danger of his being made 'a free man' by the courts."

Still, if Weaver or any of the other indicted men wants to play in the American League this year he is welcome to the "pleasure." It might be a good idea for Judge Landis to invite Weaver to take the chance.

Navy Takes a New Tack in Athletics.
Here it is almost time for the college crews to take to the water, yet we are told that the schedule of regattas, already bigger than ever before, still is not complete. Yesterday brought another pleasing development in the form of the Navy's decision to join Harvard and Princeton in a series of races on Lake Carnegie on May 7. The Crimson and the Tigers rowed at Annapolis last year and were forced to decline invitations to return. It will go to Baltimore to play baseball with Johns Hopkins and may make the trip to Philadelphia to meet Penn State in football next fall. It will come to the Polo Grounds to observe the Army in their annual battle. Now that the Navy has changed its athletic system, it behooves the Army to get permission to adopt a similar course.

RUHLIN WAS TAUGHT TO DEFEAT SHARKEY

Madden Schooled Akron Giant in Use of Conquering Straight Left.

(This is the seventeenth of a series of articles by Charles F. Mathison in which he describes interesting pugilistic events of the past. The writer confines his observations to contests and incidents of which he was an eyewitness.)

Few boxers have received a more far-reaching discomfiture than that handed to Sallor Tom Sharkey by Gus Ruhlin, the Akron Giant.

The gallant tar was at the top of his form in 1918 and was regarded as a likely candidate for the title, which then was held by Fitzsimmons. Sharkey had returned from a successful trip to England, and after boxing a twenty round draw on the coast with Joe Choynski and a twenty round bout with Jeffries, which the latter won by a hair's breadth, he came East. Billy Madden had been coaching Gus Ruhlin, the Akron brawler, and felt that the big chap would eventually win the title.

Sharkey and Ruhlin were matched and the bout was staged at the Coney Island A. C., June 29, 1918. Sharkey at this time was a dynamic fighter, speedy and combative, but it was held that Ruhlin's left hand was the key to his success. In the way of aggressiveness on the part of the Sallor.

When the two men squared off Ruhlin towered over his opponent, compact and powerful, and he began shooting his left at Sharkey in a menacing manner. Sharkey, however, paid no attention to the jab, and finally after less than a minute of scoring landed the first round knockout. The Sallor was knocked out and the fight was over.

This summary defeat was accepted as evidence that Ruhlin was lacking in championship qualities, and this was substantiated later on when he was defeated by both Fitz and Jeff.

Ruhlin Unconvinced.
Yet Ruhlin and his manager were not convinced that Sharkey was master of the ring, and they carefully prepared for a return match.

SOLDIERS REVIVE ATHLETIC LEAGUE

All Regiments in New York State Represented in the New Organization.

After a period of inactivity, due to reorganization and federalization of the National Guard, the Military Athletic League has again come to life and bids fair to surpass the success of other days. The world war brought home to the army, navy and Marine Corps, as nothing else could, the benefits of athletic activities for the boys in uniform. The National Guard, particularly the organizations in the State of New York, were always firm supporters of athletics, so it is not surprising that all interested in amateur sports that the Military Athletic League will again function.

The destinies of the new organization have been placed in the keeping of the following well known authorities on amateur pastimes, who will serve in a variety of official capacities: President, Major James P. Cooke, Twenty-third Infantry of Brooklyn; first vice-president, Col. Randolph H. Gillet, Second Infantry of Troy; second vice-president, Lyman P. Hubbard, Sixty-fifth Infantry of Buffalo; third vice-president, J. Hollis Deane, Second Infantry of Albany; secretary, Capt. Clarence W. Smith, National Guard Reserve; recording secretary, Capt. J. G. Hardmeyer, Thirteenth Coast Defense Battalion; Treasurer, Capt. Charles Dieges, Old Guard; Chairman, Charles Dieges, Old Guard; Capt. Harold Dibble, Seventy-first Infantry; Capt. Albert Panlow, Sixty-fifth Infantry; Capt. J. G. Hardmeyer, Thirteenth Coast Defense Battalion; First Lieut. John H. Onken, Twenty-second Engineers.

Major Cooke, the head of the league, used to represent the Y. M. C. A. in A. U. competitions. He earned his athletic spurs in the days of Maxey Long. Major Cooke has been chairman of the athletic board of the Twenty-third Regiment for many years.

The corraling of Jack Donaldson, world's premier professional sprinting champion, and the signing of the Twenty-third Regiment, indicated the Major's attitude toward athletics. In making his speech of acceptance Major Cooke stated that as president of the Military Athletic League he would carry out the spirit of true amateurism and would not brook the least disregard from the rules that define an amateur. A vote of confidence, the unanimous expression of the delegates present, made it plain what the attitude of the Military Athletic League will be toward those who may decline to a loose interpretation of the rules that govern amateur sport.

MAY CHANGE MARYLAND RULES

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. BALTIMORE, Feb. 15.—In executive session today the Maryland Racing Commission invited the heads of the various racing associations in the State to submit recommendations embodying changes in the rules of the administration body.

Mr. Clyde's views proved illuminating, but conditions prevailing in Maryland will prevent being carried out to the letter one of his most interesting suggestions. Mr. Clyde would have the rules of racing entirely divorced from those governing the wagers, as is the case on the New York tracks. While in New York actual racing has no connection with the speculation, it is not so here, where the State obtains a revenue from the pari mutuel machines.

Schang Refuses to Sign With Yankees

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 15.—Wally Schang is holding out again. Last year he refused to join the Boston Red Sox because the club did not offer him a $12,500 contract. This year he is balking at the offer made him by the Yankees. Schang, who resides in this city, was due to leave New York today, along with Harper and Hoyt, for Hot Springs, Ark.

Schang was secured by the Yankees this winter in a deal which also took McNally, Harper and Hoyt from the Boston Red Sox in exchange for Pratt, Vick, Thormahlen and Ruel. Schang was secured to do the bulk of the catching for the Yankees.

DEMPSEY OR NO ONE, SAYS JESS WILLARD

Will Not Fight Fulton or Any Runners-Up.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Feb. 15.—Jess Willard declared emphatically today that he would not meet Fred Fulton or any of the runners up in the heavyweight division prior to his championship bout with Jack Dempsey on Labor Day.

"If they don't let me meet Dempsey I won't fight again, and that goes," the former titleholder declared. "I am a former champion. The public did not ask Jeffries or Corbett or Fitzsimmons to go out and make a reputation when they wanted return fights. I am in line for a return match. I don't want to meet second raters. I'm not broke and do not need the money like some of the fighters."

DOBIE EXTENDS HIS CORNELL CONTRACT

Football Coach Signs to Stay Until March, 1925.

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. ITHACA, N. Y., Feb. 15.—Gilmour Dobie's contract as coach of the Cornell football team has been extended to March, 1925, it was announced today by graduate manager Berry. This effectively stops reports that Dobie was contemplating leaving Cornell, or that the termination of his contract was being sought by the athletic authorities.

Capt. Dodge said today: "The players have a firm belief in Dobie's ability, and with his presence here as our leader, I think Cornell football in the future will be something that all of her followers will be proud of."

RECEIVER FOR PRIAR ROCK.

Friar Rock, the $250,000 stallion, will be moved by court order from Santa Rosa, Cal., to the Hamburg place stock farm of John E. Madden, near Lexington, Ky., under the chaperonage of Franklin Brooks, an attorney living at 224 Riverside Drive.

Justice John Ford yesterday appointed Mr. Brooks a receiver for the stallion, and directed him to bring him from California to Kentucky. The horse originally was owned by August Belmont, who sold him to John E. Madden. Madden transferred a half interest in him to John H. Rosseter, with the understanding that Rosseter was to bring him to his stock farm at Santa Rosa until the seasons of 1921 and 1922, when he was to return him to Madden's farm.

HEDDON CHAMPION AT 18.2 BALKLINE

Beats Percy Collins in Final of Amateur Title Tourney, 300 to 247.

FINAL STANDING OF THE PLAYERS.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 15.—Percy N. Collins of Chicago was displaced as the national 18.2 balkline amateur billiard champion here to-night when he was defeated by Charles Heddon of Dowagiac, Mich., in the final game of the tournament. The score was 300 to 247.

The defeat of Collins came as a surprise, as he was picked by the experts at the start of the event to be a sure winner. Collins started in great fashion and in the twelfth inning led Heddon 199 to 11, then the change came. Compiling a run of 42 and following with small but consistent runs, Heddon tied Collins in the twenty-fourth inning with a run of 55. The title holder then challenged with runs of 61, 37 and 43 Heddon kept well in the lead until the end.

Collins won the title in 1920 and a victory to-night would have given him permanent possession of the trophy offered by the National Amateur Billiard Association.
